[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] APRIL 10, 1878.

A magisterial commission was held to-day in the cases of two citizens, John C. Adams and James T. Holt, who are confined in the jail as lunatics. They were both adjudged insane, and as such fit subjects for treatment at an asylum, and papers were made out for their admission to the asylum at Williamsburg. The same commission will meet again on Friday to examine two other cases (colored), the parties to which have been confined in jail for some time.

Mr. James Connally, a citizen of Halifax street, attempted to commit suicide to-day, by swallowing, as it is said, a quantity of cyanide of potash. Connally is a married man, has several children, and is a jeweller by trade. It is believed that he has not been altogether right in mind for a year or two. He has been made very ill from the effects of the poison swallowed, and the results of
